Venezuelan Ship Found by U.S. Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy search plane found the hijacked Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui early today about 180 miles north of Surinam, Dutch Guiana, the Defense Department announced.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Navy planes and ships scanned a broadening area of the Caribbean today in an anxious search for an elusive Venezuelan freighter hijacked by Communists. There were signs of sharp prodding from high officials of get results soon.

The hunt for the hijacked vessel began Thursday.

In back of many minds was criticism of the Navy two years ago for the five or six days it needed to locate the Portuguese liner Santa Maria, taken over in the Caribbean by rebels protesting the rule of Portuguese dictator Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

The Defense Department seems sure of only one thing: that the Venezuelan ship, the Anzoategui, had not reached sanctuary in Communist Cuba—if, in fact, it was headed there.

"We have good reason to believe it has not reached Cuban waters," a Defense Department spokesman said. He told reporters the Navy had bottled up approaches to Cuba from the southern Caribbean.

The 3,000-ton Venezuelan ship was presumed to be traveling at about 5 miles an hour. But since the Navy doesn't know whether it is moving east, west or some other direction, each hour extends the search's radius.

As of Friday evening, the Pentagon said more than 750,000 square miles of sea had been scanned, both visually and by radar.

In the first 30 hours, a spokesman said, more than 400 merchant ships displacing 7,000 tons or more and hundreds of smaller craft, had been sighted and identified.

"We have thoroughly searched, by radar and eyeball, the Caribbean Sea area bounded by the Greater Antilles, the northern coast of South America, and the Lesser Antilles," the spokesman said.

"We are now widening our area of search."

When the Navy moved into action Thursday, it was estimated the freighter stood at a point about midway between the Venezuelan coast and the island of Santo Domingo.

Officials, tight-lipped about the search until Friday evening, disclosed that Navy patrol planes and surface ships, including carriers and destroyers, moved quickly to block passages leading to Cuban ports.

Although officials declined to discuss the size of the search force it was understood more than a dozen radar-equipped patrol planes were on the mission out of Roosevelt Roads in Puerto Rico. Surface ships probably came from the Guantanamo Naval Base in eastern Cuba, among other places.

There was no clear indication what would happen when the Navy finally spots the Anzoategui. That will be up to the Venezuelan government.

But it's likely the Navy would only flash the news, then keep watch until a Venezuelan destroyer can come up to intercept the freighter.

JFK Defends Tax Cut as Necessary

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says U.S. economy "will inevitably move into a downturn"—perhaps this year—if Congress doesn't act promptly to cut taxes.

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday the congressional battle over tax legislation will be "a hard fight." But he was optimistic about getting an acceptable bill by the end of the session.

"We are going to get a bill for a tax reduction which will provide a consensus," Kennedy forecast. "It won't be perhaps the bill we sent up, but I think it will be a good bill."

In a special message to Congress Jan. 24, Kennedy proposed a combination of rate cuts and tax revisions that would produce, over the next three years, a net tax reduction of $10.2 billion.

Besides renewing and strengthening his plea for action on the tax package, Kennedy made three major points:

—The United States is doing more than the European to defend Europe; and intend to maintain its present combat strength there. However, troops will be withdrawn if they wear out their welcome—though Kennedy sees no sign of that.

He definitely plans no economic or political reprisals against President Charles de Gaulle of France who shook the Western alliance by quashing British entry into the European Common Market and by spurning U.S. proposals for a multinational nuclear force in Europe.

In remarks directed both at his Republican critics at home—specifically Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York—and friendly nations abroad, Kennedy said: "It is a mistake always to assume that the United States is wrong, and that by being disagreeable to the United States, it is always possible to compel the United States to succumb."

He said "our primary mission for the hemisphere this winter" is to work with Latin-American nations to combat Communist subversion, sabotage and political intrigue directed not only from Cuba but from northeastern Brazil and elsewhere.

In making his new plug for a tax cut, Kennedy argued that inaction by Congress would mean "restricted economic growth, higher unemployment" and a bigger-than-forecast deficit, already estimated at $11.9 billion for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

He described his tax package as "our plan to prevent a recession this year and the years to come."

On other topics, Kennedy: Said the Western allies haven't decided whether it would be fruitful to resume exploratory talks aimed at a possible Berlin settlement.

Expressed full faith in the qualifications of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., his choice to be under-secretary of commerce. The nomination has been the target of Republican criticism. "They questioned the qualifications of his father to be president," said Kennedy.

When reminded that he questioned the U.S. image abroad during the 1960 presidential campaign, said he would want to wait and "get clearer ideas in the next two years" before deciding how U.S. prestige has fared since then.

Africa Students in an Exodus From Bulgaria

By HANS BENEDICT

VIENNA (AP)—Hundreds of African students today were reported waiting for funds or transportation to enable them to join an exodus from Communist Bulgaria. Twenty Ghanaian students quit the country Friday charging racial discrimination.

Radio Ghana quoted the Ghanaian ambassador to Sofia as saying he believed all African students in Bulgaria—about 400—would leave. The ambassador, J. L. Appah Sampson, said in Amsterdam, where he accompanied the Ghanaian group, that all would have left already if they had the money.

"We have been called black monkeys and jungle people and we were treated like dirt," one of the Ghanaian students, Robert Kotey, 25, said.

Their departure followed the arrest Monday of seven leaders of an All-African Students' Union in Sofia, which Communist authorities had banned. Police and militia beat some students when they staged a protest parade Tuesday.

Students said that during a year of study in Bulgaria they were insulted on the streets and fed a heavy diet of Communist doctrine in the classroom.

"Whoever among us had leftist leanings has been cured," Kotey told newsmen.

Sulphur Queen Still Missing

NEW YORK (AP)—The American tanker Marine Sulphur Queen, which disappeared Feb. 3 with its crew of 39, has been added to the list of mysteries of the sea.

The Coast Guard said Wednesday night it was calling off the active search for the vessel, although all units have been directed to maintain a lookout for the missing ship during normal operations.

The Coast Guard declined to speculate on the ship's fate. But it noted that a 500-hour search of the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico by 63 aircraft had failed to turn up a trace of her.

The 524-ton tanker, carrying molten sulphur, left Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2 and was to have arrived at Norfolk, Va., Feb. 7. She was last heard from the night of Feb. 3 when a crewman sent a personal radio message from a point near Key West, Fla.

Negotiator to Be Sent to Europe

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy plans to send a special negotiator to Europe in about 10 days for urgent talks with allied governments on creation of a NATO nuclear striking force.

The President made clear at a news conference Thursday that he thinks European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are entitled to a greater voice in deciding the nuclear strategy of the West against the Soviet Union.

He emphasized that they must pay an increasing share of the total cost of Western defense. Special negotiator Livingston T. Merchant, retired diplomat called back to duty for the nuclear mission, will go to Europe in about 10 days, Kennedy told newsmen.

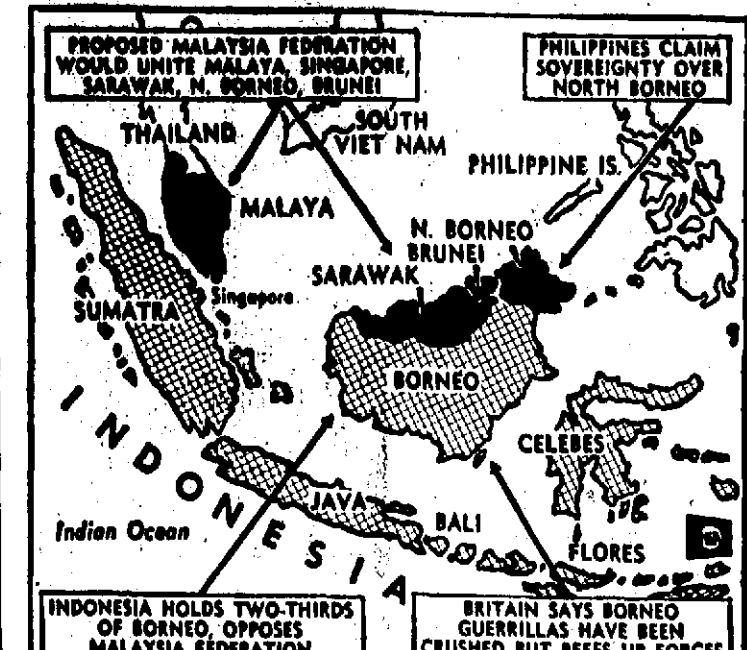

As a result of policy discussions Kennedy is now holding, Merchant is expected to be able to tell allied leaders how the United States believes the nuclear force could be organized.

The most difficult problem, Kennedy said, involves deciding what man or men would decide in a sudden emergency whether nuclear weapons should be used.

Kennedy said the power might be given to the American president or the president of France or the British prime minister or someone else. What he hopes at the moment, he said, is that guidelines on this "life and death" issue can be laid down at an early stage so that the work of setting up the force can go forward.

He hopes to have specific proposals worked out by the time foreign ministers of the 15-nation NATO council meet in May at Ottawa, Canada.

The issue lies at the heart of the split between most other allied leaders and French President Charles de Gaulle. He is determined to give France an independent nuclear force, perhaps coordinated with, but not controlled by any kind of NATO command.

CONFLICT OVER BORNEO—Top candidate for the world's next trouble spot is the Pacific island of Borneo. It is divided into four sections: Indonesian Borneo and the British crown colonies of Sarawak and North Borneo and the protectorate of the Sultanate of Brunei. Indonesia has been sympathetic to rebel nationalists in Brunei who recently attempted armed takeover. Both Britain and Indonesia are reported increasing their military forces. Added complications are the Philippines' claim to North Borneo and the plan to include the three dependencies in a Greater Malaysia Federation.

Few Folks Realize What the Theobroma Cacao Tree Is Until You Mention Chocolate

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Do you still have the sweet taste of Valentine candy in your mouth? More than likely that candy was chocolate, but nothing like hearts and flowers was in the mind of Swedish scientist Linnaeus when he gave the cocoa tree its name.

Rather, "theobroma cacao" is translated "food for the gods." And very few would not agree it is heavenly indeed.

Most people know that cacao is the name of the plant from which cocoa is derived, but the majority would be surprised to see the way such a plant looks. According to a little publication called "A Wake," the average "chocolate tree" is about 15 feet tall with slender, pointed leaves that are a rich, dark green.

Unlike many plants, the "fruit" of the tree is not nestled among its leaves, but grows directly from the trunk and main branches. It takes the form of a yellow pod 6 to 14 inches long and 2 to 3 inches in diameter. When the pod becomes the right shade of orange-yellow (surprised it wasn't dark or light brown? I was.), it is carefully cut from the tree, leaving the thickened part attached to the cushion; else the tree becomes diseased.

So far, so good. Now, the pods are opened and from 20 to 30 beans are found in each. The beans are covered with a sticky, white gum. Like coffee beans, the cacao beans must, then, be roasted, either artificially or spread in the sun. The idea is to ferment the beans. Not until that happens do the little morsels acquire the look and aroma of what we know as chocolate. Not only does drying the beans remove the sticky white pulp, but unfermmented beans produce bitter, astringent chocolate of poor color.

What is it about this tasty bean that makes it so fascinating, you ask? Well, we are told by those who ought to know that the beans are about 55% fat or cacao butter. For that reason, grinding the podded beans does not result in a powdery substance, but a paste. Melt it, add milk and sugar, and you have a good drink. In the 18th Century chocolate was the beverage of high society in England and on the Continent.

To the surprise of this scribe, chocolate is used for things other than food. Actually, it is cocoa butter that is sometimes used in cosmetics and toilet preparations. This same kind of butter is, sometimes found in margerines, and where pure fat is necessary, it has been sold for skin irritations.

All this from the "food from the gods"? Maybe it is appropriately named. M-m-m-m. Have you tried these little round ones wrapped in red foil? Delicious.

Bravery Test in a Split Second

WOODSIDE, Calif. (AP)—John McCoy of Grass Valley, Calif., took the bravery test Thursday. It was a split-second decision he had to make.

McCoy, 46, and Maurice Hines, 19, were helping clear giant madroñas and redwood trees for an electric transmission line in the rugged terrain of San Mateo County near here.

Hines, a close friend of McCoy's two teen-age children, was standing nearby when a huge madrona tree came rolling down a slope toward them.

"Get the hell out of here, son," McCoy yelled, and gave Hines a shove.

The youth slid face down in the leaf mold to safety.

The tree rolled atop McCoy and killed him.

Venezuela Going After Hijackers

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime offered asylum today to Communist hijackers of the Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui as Venezuelan destroyers and jet bombers hunted the fugitive vessel across the Caribbean.

The 3,127-ton freighter was believed heading for the Cuban port of Santiago, on the island's south-east coast.

Three Venezuelan destroyers were reported on the track of the captive ship. But if its position was known, it was kept secret by Venezuelan authorities.

The Castro government, in a statement broadcast by Havana Radio, said if the ship arrived at any Cuban port, "the revolutionary government will grant asylum to Venezuelan revolutionaries and members of the crew who solicit such."

The broadcast said the ship and the rest of the crew would be turned over to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Communist hijackers of a Venezuelan freighter were believed heading for the Cuban port of Santiago today as Venezuelan destroyers and jet bombers chased the fugitive vessel across the Caribbean.

Three Venezuelan destroyers were reported on the track of the 3,127-ton Anzoategui. But if the captive ship's position was known, it was kept secret by Venezuelan authorities.

Reliable sources said U.S. Navy planes spotted the freighter Thursday midway between Venezuela and the Dominican Republic. Shipping circles in Caracas said the motorship Sucre later reported sighting the Anzoategui in about the same position.

This would have placed the freighter about 450 miles south-east of Santiago, which is 40 miles from the big U.S. naval base at Guantanamo.

Some observers believed the hijackers had not decided whether to try for the Cuban port or for Mexico. The freighter has a top speed of 15 knots, considerably less than the pursuing destroyers. But it had a considerable start on the pursuers.

President Romulo Betancourt ordered an all-out effort to intercept the hijackers, identified as nine members of the Armed Forces for National Liberation, a Communist organization with links to Fidel Castro's regime. Betancourt called on friendly nations in the area to help.

The Communists boasted of seizing the freighter Wednesday to dramatize their fight against Betancourt and to force him to call off a trip to Washington next week for talks with President Kennedy. Betancourt showed no inclination to cancel his trip, even though the sea action was accompanied by mounting terrorism in Caracas and other Venezuelan cities.

A Caracas radio station announced that U.S. warships from Guantanamo joined in the search for the Anzoategui, but diplomats here doubted it. They interpreted Betancourt's appeal for help from nations around the Caribbean as meaning he wanted them to keep watch on the freighter.

Informants in Washington said if U.S. ships or planes sight the freighter, they will report her position to Caracas. These sources suggested a Venezuelan request to intercept the ship will be honored, but the State Department and the Navy were silent on this point.

Interior minister Carlos Andres Perez called the hijackers pirates and said all nations under international law are obligated to help capture them.

Promises to Correct the Spelling

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Post Office Department promises to spell centennial correctly on the stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg. The winning design had it spelled "centennal."

"The design was selected on its artistic merit, not for the correctness of the inscription," the Post Office Department said in Washington Thursday.

"Correction, of course, will be made on the stamp engraving." Artist Roy Gjerston, 36, of San Pedro, Calif., who won $500 for the design, said, "I can really spell it correctly. I spelled it right on the originals, but just omitted a letter when I made my final design. As far as the misspelling is concerned, I'm laughing all the way to the post office."

A high school senior from suburban Lansdowne, Pa., Carlton W. Greve, was among those who noticed the error. Pictures of six of the top stamps in the judging appeared in a supplement of Sunday's Philadelphia Bulletin.

Gjerston's entry for the 5-cent stamp shows a Confederate soldier and a Union soldier in close-quarter combat with bayonets fixed to their rifles. The blue, gray and black stamp will be issued July 1 at Gettysburg, Pa.

Health officials in Tennessee say influenza cases have tripled in Memphis since last week. About 500 cases had been reported by Friday, and officials said there probably were other cases not reported.

Crash Probe Still Underway

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—It may take several weeks to determine what caused a Northwest Orient Airlines plane to crash, killing all 23 persons aboard, the Civil Aeronautics Board said today.

"We can say without any further question that the plane came apart in the air," Edward Slattery of Washington, CAB information officer, declared. "We are now trying to focus on the cause, which may take several weeks."

Only one body remained unrecovered at the scene of the crash 14 miles southwest of 40-mile bend in the Everglades west of Miami. Investigators believed it lay beneath a heavy wing fragment.

The other 42 bodies were brought to the County Morgue. Almost all of the plane's 35 passengers were tourists, most of them from Illinois.

The jetliner carried a crew of eight when it left Miami on Tuesday for Chicago in murky weather. Radio and radar contact was lost seven minutes later.

Consumer Goods Output Is Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—An increase in the output of consumer goods helped industrial production hold steady in January despite a slight drop in production of materials and equipment.

Reporting this Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board said the production index for the month was 119 per cent of the 1957-59 average, five points above the January 1962 average and the same as the December mark.

Construction materials continued a decline while production of auto assemblies remained high. The board said production in both December and January was limited by strikes and severe weather.

Asian Flu Has Closed Schools in the East

CHICAGO (AP)—A wave of influenza which has closed schools and brought high job absenteeism in several Eastern Seaboard states since mid-January is pushing into the Midwest.

Asian type flu, similar to that which swept the nation in 1957-58 and again in 1960, has been confirmed in several states, including Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Kansas.

Outbreaks of less severe types of influenza have been widespread. The first confirmed cases this winter were reported last month in Robeson County, North Carolina. The state reported 65,994 new cases last week.

The Communicable Disease Center of the U.S. Public Health Service in Atlanta reported Friday that pneumonia-influenza deaths have been above the epidemic level of the past five weeks.

The report, based on figures from 108 cities, showed a sharp upswing in deaths in the week ending Feb. 8.

In Ohio the Cincinnati Health Department said absenteeism among the city's 82,000 public school students jumped to 23 per cent Friday from 15 per cent the day before. Three deaths were blamed on flu, which the department said was caused by an Asian type virus.

There were two confirmed Asian flu cases among students at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Wayne County officials reported growing job absenteeism in the Detroit area.

Reports of influenza-like illness in Kentucky, West Virginia and Missouri also indicated a westerly spread of the disease. Hospitals in St. Louis reported admissions had doubled because of a flu outbreak.

An Asian flu outbreak among recruits at Great Lakes Naval Training Center reached a peak earlier this week. "It was described as much less severe than a 1957 epidemic."

Health officials in Tennessee say influenza cases have tripled in Memphis since last week. About 500 cases had been reported by Friday, and officials said there probably were other cases not reported.

To Petition for Gambling Crackdown

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A resolution was being prepared in the Arkansas House today urging Gov. Orval E. Faubus to crack down on gambling law violations.

Woodruff County Rep. Jack Oakes had the rough draft of the resolution and he said several other House members were interested in co-sponsoring it with him.

The resolution does not mention Faubus by name but it says it is the will of the general assembly that "all state officials charged with enforcement of the gambling laws proceed forthwith to enforce them."

The resolution is designed as a counter measure to a bill introduced by Ashley County Rep. N.B. Murphy to create a special State Police unit to investigate gambling.

Oakes said Arkansas has laws against gambling and he feels that the people want them enforced. Faubus has said frequently that he considers gambling, particularly at Hot Springs, a local affair and he issued a statement in January saying he would not use State Police to interfere with the Hot Springs operation.

The statement aroused the ire of many church groups who rallied

U.S. Policy Has to Be Re-examined

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration's re-examination of its foreign policy is like a doctor, with some ailments of his own, trying to prescribe for patients with everything from whooping cough to paranoia.

This re-examination is only one of many which must be made, not only during President Kennedy's time but long afterward, because the problems vary from nationalism and communism to fanaticism and pauperism.

The immediate look, because it is the most immediate problem, is at this country's policy in Europe where President de Gaulle, a French nationalist above everything else, is baffling the Atlantic alliance and the Common Market.

His obstructionism is a direct product of his nationalism. But it is also nationalism which has made a farce of the Marxists' idea that communism eliminates nationalism with a special glue which keeps Communist nations together.

The Russians are as nationalist as the French, or the Americans, although they talk in big brother language.

The Russians have gone through the usual period of fanaticism of early crusaders and revolutionaries. Stalin, Lenin, and the other early bolsheviks were fanatics.

Their fanaticism was stoked by poverty. But they built up fast.

Now, compared with the early bolshevik days, the Russians are an affluent society. With that affluence — that is, possessions — comes a degree of conservatism and some loss of the early crusading zeal because now they have something to lose by taking risks.

The Red Chinese, whose leaders still alive were the original leaders of their revolution and therefore are comparable to the early bolsheviks, are in exactly the same economic condition as the Russians at the time of their revolution.

The red Chinese leaders are making up for lost time with efforts to give their people a pride in nation and a sense of purpose, both basic parts of a necessary philosophy if the Chinese masses to support of the Murphy bill, which, in effect, would be a mandate to Faubus to move against gambling.

Suspicious Salesman Causes Probe

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A suspicious used car salesman in Hot Springs touched off an FBI investigation that led to the arrest of seven men allegedly operating a car theft ring in at least four states, Special Agent Roy J. Moore of the Little Rock FBI office announced today.

Moore said more than 20 stolen cars had been located so far in the Hot Springs area, and that there were believed to be more.

He said most of the cars were stolen in the Akron, Ohio, area, transported to Georgia, where they were repainted and given new license plates and serial numbers, and sold in the Hot Springs and Shreveport, La., areas, mostly to used car dealers.

Moore said the investigation began when a Hot Springs dealer became suspicious after he had purchased one of the automobiles. He contacted police.

Arrested were Winfred Lee Angel, Roy Edward Paulson, D.L. "Buster" Mooney, all of Hot Springs; William Charles Palmer of Tallmadge, Ohio; and Joseph Francis Newman, Foster Imhoff and Darius Woody, all of Akron, Ohio. The Ohio men were taken into custody in Ohio, Moore said.

The seven were charged with conspiracy and interstate transportation of stolen property on warrants issued by U. S. Atty. Charles M. Conway of Fort Smith, Moore said.

Angel and Paulson also face state charges of receiving stolen property and altering motor identification numbers on automobiles. Preliminary hearings for both are scheduled for Feb. 27 in Hot Springs Municipal Court.

Moore said the ring apparently had been in operation for about two years. He said an investigation indicated Angel and Paulson mobiles and using title and identification plates from the wrecks to dispose of the stolen automobiles.

Angel operated a used car lot in Hot Springs and Paulson was a salesman. Mooney owns a salvage lot at the Spa.

Moore said Newman, Palmer and Imhoff were believed to be used car salesmen in the Akron area.

Moore said the FBI was assisted in the investigation by the Arkansas State Police, the Hot Springs Police Department, the National Automobile Theft Bureau and Pros. Atty. David Whittington of Hot Springs.

are to submit to discipline and sacrifices.

Thus, in China as in Russia, communism is piled on top of nationalism. But it is because of the nationalism, not communism, that a separatism between Russia and Red China was inevitable.

In Japan, a highly efficient society with a cohesiveness that their long island isolation turned into cement, nationalism is intense. India has it, less intense but growing. No nation in Europe is without it.

It will grow in Africa, although it may take another generation to cause the trouble it is almost certain to cause in that conglomeration of new nations. And if communism gets in there the confusion will be compounded.

On top of all this is the poverty of Africa and Latin America, too. The latter, while it has its own various forms of nationalism, is a land acutely divided between the rich and the very poor.

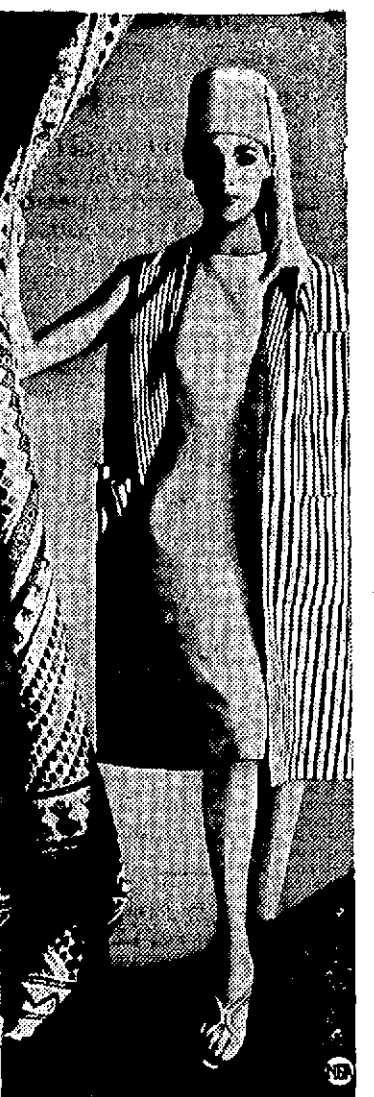

This fact may cause the Kennedy administration to make profound re-examinations of policy if the Southern Hemisphere is to be saved from communism because, unless the Latin American masses quickly begin to share in the world's wealth, the quick promises of communism will be unanswerable.

The motion picture, "Lawrence of Arabia," inspired a fashion trend that is both exotic and practical. The burnoose (left) has been sculptured into an antron jersey lounging robe by Robert Rosenfeld. By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I read your column every day and agree with your answers. You must be a very intelligent woman to know so much. Please tell your readers about yourself. What are the color of your eyes? What are your sports, hobbies, foods, songs and colors? And what month is your birthday? Hope to read the answers to my questions in your column real soon. —A Fan Forever, Judy Ann Ciesinski, North Bloomfield, Ohio

Dear Judy: What a nice letter! Of course I'll answer your questions with pleasure. Here goes for that first one about the color of my eyes: The children in the private school I attended in New York, The Hamilton Institute for Girls now extinct used to call me "cow-eyes." I took this as a light at the time; now I regard it as a compliment for to me the large, dark, gentle eyes of a cow are quite beautiful.

My favorite sport—or exercise—is walking, though I have little time for it today. I once walked around Manhattan Island, a distance of 34 miles, with Mrs. Theodore Steinway, and recorded our experiences in a daily column for the "New York World-Telegram."

Ruth and I seldom made more than five miles because we topped to talk to the people and explore the neighborhoods. It was a fascinating experience and is now history, for the New York we saw in 1932 has all but vanished. Later on our adventures were published in a book titled, "Round Manhattan's Rim."

As for other sports, I like horse racing but only when I can see the horses run. The name rather the stable or breeding, influences my judgment. One summer when I happened to be in Paris, I saw in the sports section of the Herald that a horse named Worden was running at Chantilly, the beautiful race course which is part of the estate once owned by a Prince of Orleans, the Du d'Aumole.

Worden being my maiden name, took this as a significant omen. How could the horse lose?

Antoinette Hoffner, professor of French at Barnard, drove out with me to witness Worden's triumph. It was a glorious afternoon in June. From the track we could see Chantilly, the white wedding cake of a chateau etched against the blue sky. All of fashionable Paris appeared to be in the club enclosure. Once we had chosen our seats, we dashed down to take a look at Worden. He was an awkward looking, rangy horse owned by an American, Ralph Strassburger. After turning a wicked eye upon us for a moment, the horse ambled indifferently on—long shot of the afternoon, 40 to one. Undaunted, Antoinette and I put all of our betting reserves for the afternoon—$10 on our favorite.

When we left the track at five o'clock, he was still running the wrong way—lost in the forest of Chantilly. Despite the collapse of our hopes we had no regrets. The beauty of the surroundings, the gaiety of the scene and the excitement of the race was worth the price. But I wrote Worden off as a bad risk. Back in New York a year after I chanced to see the name Worden in headlines on the last page of the "Daily News." Beneath was a big picture of that gangling horse leaping to victory at Pimlico. The odds were 100 to one!

I'll answer your question about my hobbies in next Saturday's column. Meanwhile, I'm glad you are a reader.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

On the screens of the closed circuit television, Matt saw the target box and the stream of fire blasting from the Bevatron.

Then he saw something else, a black shape, an overcoated figure huddled under the concrete box.

"There he is!" Matt screamed. "Clague! He's out there under the target box!"

Stroup's hand shot to the controls. "A whole day's work wasted," said McCann. "Don't your people have more sense?"

"Mr. McCann," said Bradley, "a man's been killed."

Rodney McCann suddenly was a very squelched man.

"What was he doing out there?" Bradley asked.

"I was trying to arrest him for the murder of Dr. Pruitt," said Matt. "He ran in here."

"He killed Chet?" Stroup asked. Matt nodded. "I have it down on a tape. The proof is in the lab keys and the time cards, plus a forged order to junk some old time clocks. Clague was the only person who could have killed Pruitt. I'll give you a full report after I talk to Moynihan."

"Why?" asked Bradley. Matt explained the plan to discredit Rispin.

While the air outside the hunker cleared of gammas, Stroup was on the phone. They went out then to where Jack Clague lay.

Clague was carried to the plant emergency room.

Dr. Nelson, the company doctor, had administered a sedative. Frank Moynihan also was brought in. A bullet had fractured his left leg below the knee. He'd be laid up for awhile. He was in another room, separated by a partition from the man who shot him. Johnson was dead.

A nurse was giving first aid treatment to the wounds of the two security cops Clague had felled.

Jack Clague started reaching. Corbin Bradley hovered by the side of his Security Chief, almost unwilling to believe the story he had heard from Matt Bacon.

The doctor sighed deeply as he finished taking the pulse. Looking toward Bradley, he shook his head.

"Give him plenty of morphine, Doctor," said Bradley.

The doctor shook his head vigorously this time. "I've given him a very large dose."

Clague groaned from the bed. "He's in pain. You've got to do more."

The doctor hesitated. "There's not much more that can be done."

Beth, Matt and Wes Stroup were in the infirmary waiting room.

"All of them were beyond their depths," Stroup was saying. "Jack and Cliff let their ambitions override good judgment. Belle Pruitt tried to get her husband's attention by inventing something. Simon Rispin refused to retire even when his job was too much for him. Chet himself overplayed his hand by trying to explode Johnson's treachery."

"But people do win in unfamiliar situations," said Beth. "The secret is adjustment—which is a kind of growth. Belle Pruitt won and she ought to be rewarded."

"Reward and punishment are social pressures," said Stroup. "No matter what you say, Beth,

Spells Out Activities of Church

By JERRY EDGERTON

PARIS AP)—"We marry, we bury and we baptize."

The American Church in Paris does carry out all these traditional functions. But its pastor, the Rev. Martin Van Buren Sargent, is quick to make it clear that the church's activities don't stop there.

Some of the other services of We're restricted to grooves. When you commit a crime—social or any other kind—society demands punishments. When you do something helpful, society rewards."

Matt decided that too many people were trying to discover what society wanted, and not enough people using their heads to find out what was best for themselves. People memorized codes of ethics—and didn't try to understand them.

Bradley's standards wouldn't stand close inspection but his social pressure was personified by Rodney McCann who had stockholders on his neck.

McCann wouldn't have to hear about the TV gadget now. A lawyer would settle things with Belle Pruitt. Yes, she'd be rewarded.

"Matt," Bradley said, "itemize your expenses and send me your bill."

"Everything's satisfactory?" "Business-wise, yes. We can't have everything we want."

Matt nodded. He took Beth's arm and they went out the door. Bradley watched them through a window. Then he spoke to Wes Stroup: "Nice looking couple. That wind wasn't all ill."

I thought she had more sense," said Stroup. "She's a nice girl. She has no business running around with a good-for-nothing, unscrupulous private detective. She doesn't even speak his language. They're both getting themselves into some kind of a situation."

"Those kind of situations we can have more off," said Bradley.

this unique religious institution are maintaining bunks for American soldiers on leave, providing a meeting place for the Paris chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, running a bilingual nursery and supplying rooms for the American College in Paris.

Said to be the oldest U.S. church on foreign soil, the American Church held its first meetings in 1814 in private homes. In 1857 the church built a building and began to hold public meetings. This first church was on the Rue de Berri, near the Champs Elysees, in what is now the building of the New York Herald Tribune European edition. In 1931 Seine to its present spacious establishment on the Quai d'Orsay.

Although the approximately 500 seats of the church are filled nearly every Sunday for the interdenominational Protestant service, the Rev. Mr. Sargent says that actual membership is some what less than 200. "If you've been here three years, you're an old hand," he adds.

By this yardstick, the minister himself is not at all an old hand. He has been here four months. The 43-year-old pastor served in three churches in the United States before coming to Europe.

The Paris church is quite a new experience, says the Rev. Mr. Sargent, a New York City native. "I spent most of my time before working in American, suburban, white, Protestant communities, it's really something to look out over the congregation a Sunday morning and see Africans, Orientals and Caucasians all worshipping together."

He said that the diplomatic, military and business personnel who make up most of the permanent membership often leave things in the church storage space if they are called upon to move suddenly. The church's safe even contains several valuable silver items left there at the start of World War II and never claimed.

Late Show Sat. at Saenger Also, Sunday - Monday

Doris Day, Stephen Boyd, Jimmy Durante and Martha Raye are the dazzling stars of "Billy Rose's Jumbo," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular musical with a circus background, in which all four sing, dance and appear in thrilling savadist acts, including equestrian feats and highwire performances. Based on the Broadway stage success, the big Panavision and color attraction features seven Rodgers and Hart song hits and many of the world's most famous circus acts. The Joe Pasternak Production was directed by Charles Walters.

Starts Tuesday at Saenger

"THE MIRACLE WORKER" stars Anne Bancroft, who will probably get an Academy Award for her performance in this picture, Victory Jory and introduces Patty Duke.

Bushland Strikers May Return

TORONTO (AP) — The Ontario bushland's 1,500 striking loggers were expected to go back to work Saturday or next week following a 19-hour bargaining session between union and company officials which ended in a temporary agreement.

Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree said the loggers will meet Saturday to ratify the pact designed to end the month-long walkout which exploded into violence Monday. Enraged settlers in the area killed three strikers and wounded nine others.

Rowntree believes the agreement will serve as the basis for settlement of the 5-month dispute over a new contract for the loggers. The loggers demand a 40-hour week instead of 44 and other benefits. A company spokesman estimated they averaged $21 a day under the old contract.

The pact was worked out after aroused provincial authorities or-

Bobcats Slam Fairview in District Go

By CARTER HARDAGE

Monday, the Bobcats took a very important Conference victory over Fairview. Hopes "B" Boys took their game 45-37 and the Senior Boys whipped Fairview 57-43. In the Junior District Tourney at Magnolia, Hope was downed 27-22 by their archrival, Malvern, and in the Girls' Tournament at Ashdown, Hope was shaded 45-44 by DeQueen.

The Bobkittens, going into the District Tournament with a 6-1 Conference record, having lost only to Malvern by two points, fell to Malvern 27-22. By the Quarter the Killens had dropped behind 7-4, and stayed there. It was 13-6 at the Half, 18-11 for the Quarter, and finally 27-22. Ingram was high with 8 points, followed by Aslin 5, Watkins 3, and Parris, McGill, and May with 2 each.

The Senior Girls got tossed out of their tourney in a close one. The Lady Cats moved out front by 13-8 for the Quarter, and even further ahead 26-20 at the Half. But DeQueen came closer to 33-32 at the Third Quarter, and even managed to slip into a 45-44 lead when time ran out and that's how things had to stay. Annette Hatfield was top for the Ladies with 16 points, Janice Lloyd had 15, and Shirley Smith 13.

The "B" Boys had quite a battle for awhile, led by a slim 9-3 after the First Quarter. They were out front 19-14 during the Half, 31-25 at the Quarter, and it was Cats 45, Cardinals 37 at the final buzzer. Johnny Honeycutt was the big gunner for the "B" Team with 14 points, followed by Reinhardt 11, Jordan 8, Henley 6, Thrash 3, Wassell 2, and Allen 1.

As Coach Mitchell kept repeating, Hope's victory over Fairview was a "must." The game started slowly and no one had more than a four point advantage until after the Half. It was 8 all at the Quarter, and 24-22 for the Half. Hope popped into a 40-32 at the Third Quarter and ripped up things by taking the big game 67-43. Although Earl Ray Murphy received a knee injury, it is not thought to be too serious at this time.

dered the union and the companies to get together to end the strike which touched off a war between the strikers and settlers in the Kapuskasing area 400 miles northwest of Toronto.

About 1,000 settlers in the area add to their meager farming incomes by delivering pulpwood in the winter to the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co. The strikers patrolled the woods to prevent the deliveries.

Monday, 400 union members invaded a camp near Kapuskasing where the settlers had collected logs. The settlers opened fire. Since then some 200 provincial police have kept order.

Police charged 19 settlers with non-capital murder and 237 unionists with rioting.

About 1,100 loggers work in the bush north of Kapuskasing for the Spruce Falls company. The other 400 work for Kimberly-Clark at Long Lac, 180 miles west of Kapuskasing.

The companies are subsidiaries of Kimberly-Clark Canada Ltd., makers of Kleenex. Spruce Falls, also is partly owned by the New York Times, which took a third of its newspaper production before the New York newspaper strike. The rest went to the Washington Star, the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Detroit News.

No further outbreaks of influenza-like illness remained most active last week in Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic states, the U.S. Public Health Service' communicable disease center reported today.

The agency said that during the week ending Feb. 9 there were 705 pneumonia-influenza deaths in the 108 U.S. cities covered in its weekly report. This represents 157 more deaths than had been expected, the report said.

The number of pneumonia-influenza deaths reported weekly has remained above epidemic proportions for the last five weeks, with a sharp upswing for the week ending Feb. 9, the report added.

Excess pneumonia-influenza deaths increased sharply in the Middle and South Atlantic states, with the greatest excess reported in Richmond, Va.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D.C., and New York City. The presence of Asian influenza was confirmed in each of these areas.

U.S. Trying for Davis Cup Comeback

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. tennis picture, faded by a three-year series of Davis Cup setbacks, looks on a rosier hue today—thanks to a pair of youngsters.

They are Dennis Ralston, 20, of Bakersfield, Calif., and Cliff Buchholz, 19, of St. Louis, perpetrators of the first major upsets Thursday night in the National Indoor Tennis Championships at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Ralston eliminated Martin Mulligan of Australia, last year's Wimbledon runner-up, in a second round match 6-4, 7-5.

Is The Lord Our God

Luke 6:31

And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise

W

What do you really wish that men would do to you... leave you alone? Try it and you will have a lonely world... no home, no neighborhood, no church, no nation. Do you expect your employees to work for you while you forget their welfare. Do you wish others to deal kindly and generously with you? Do you demand that people be honest, truthful, and trustworthy with you? Would you rather others be courteous, and appreciative of you and lend a helping hand when you have a hard task to do? They who keep the Golden Rule will discover that it must work both ways. It is "the rule of God." In every land and in every age it is the basic rule for good living. One cannot improve on it. If you want Golden Rule treatment from others you must give Golden Rule treatment to them. It will work in the experiences of every man. It is the Divine Way. The Golden Rule is still very Golden.
